Custom Message Transformation

Unknown macro: {scrollbar}

This idea here is two allow, more or less, direct population of custom data structures from the FIX field stream. This is similar in philosophy to FAST templates. The tricky issue is how we provide session-related information to the Session object in a standard way, independent of the application level data structures.